AFO 615 – Define system messages

615.1 Introduction

You can configure the system so that in specific situations messages appear on the screen. With AFO 615 you can define and/or change these system messages.

When you start AFO 615, a menu appears:

General message during login

This menu option allows you to define a general message. This is a message that appears as soon as a user logs into the system. The message appears immediately after logging in.

Define the selected text

This is the development and test database on the VSQAPREV namespace of the Ontwikkelding server in Den Bosch which is moving towards 2.4.1
