

AFO 417 – Refunds and miscellaneous payments

417.1 Introduction

Using AFO 417, you can return payments and process 'free' receipts. The system distinguishes between three possible transactions in this AFO:

- Controlled return payment
 - return payment of amounts that have been registered previously in the system as receipts. Using a parameter in AFO 481 – Miscellaneous – Circulation workflow - General, you can indicate the type of receipts for which return payment is allowed. The system will allow refunds of subscription fees and/or deposits.

- Free (refund) payments
 - refunds of amounts that have not been registered previously in the system as receipts. Think in this respect on trivial expenses pertaining to everyday matters (for example, NLG 50.00 is taken from the cash register to purchase a birthday present for a colleague, et cetera).

- Free receipts:
 - receipt of amounts that do not fit into one of the standard categories, e.g. loan fee, fine, subscription fee, et cetera.

- Examples:
 - Free (refund) payments:
 - accept giro maintenance
 - general publicity
 - office supplies
 - copying costs
 - canteen costs
 - postage fees

 - Free receipts
 - administrative costs
 - general income
 - invoices
 - book revenue

[The last two may only be used if you do not use AFO 495 'Invoice control'].

In the cash register overviews, these refunds and receipts are grouped in the receipt type X (miscellaneous).

Please note!

Controlled refunds may only be made after the parameter has been correctly defined in AFO 481 and then payment of subscription fees and/or deposits have been registered. Free (refund) payments and receipts can only be made after the valid codes have been defined in AFO 494 'Cash register administration: control of free files'.

417.2 The options

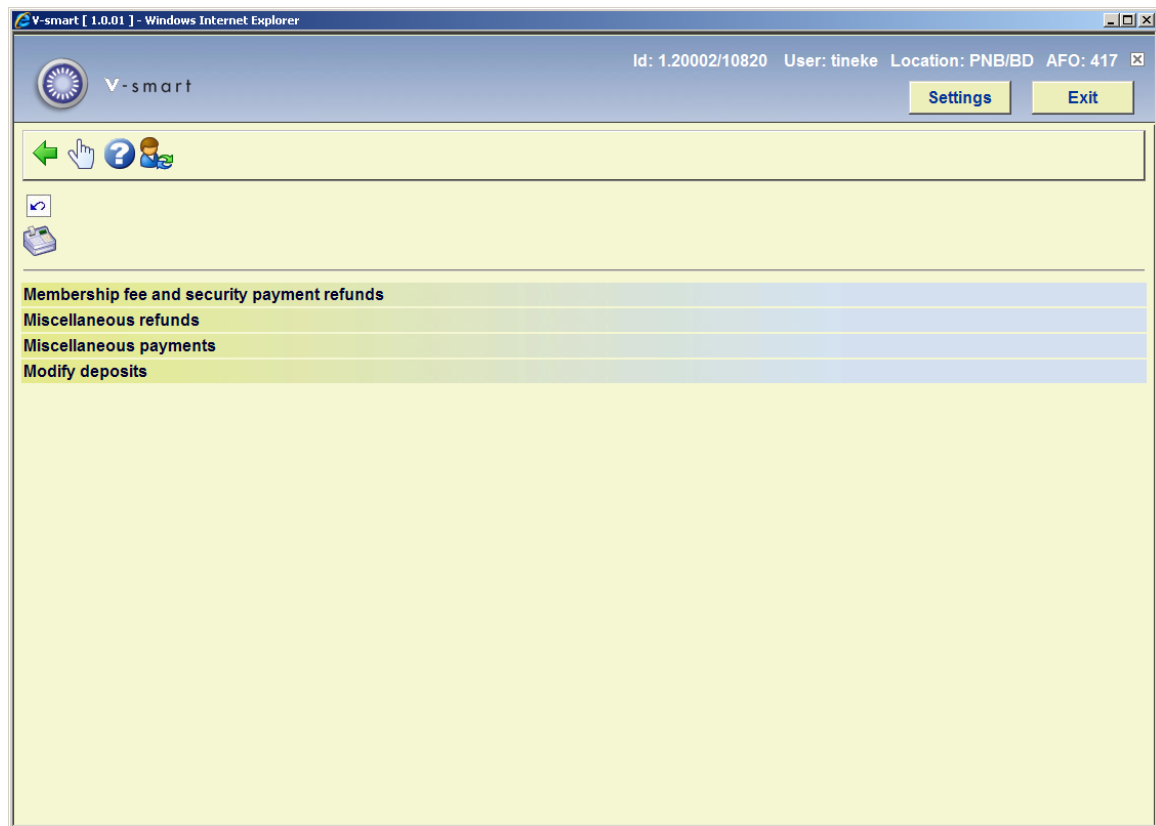

After choosing this option the following search form will be displayed:

The screenshot shows a software window titled "Identify a borrower". The window has a light green background. On the left side, there is a small icon of a printer. To the right of the main content area, there is a vertical panel with five buttons: "OK", "Cancel", "Help", "Previous", and "Advanced". The "Advanced" button has a small 'A' underlined. The window has a standard close button (X) in the top right corner.

Select a borrower here. Enter a borrower barcode or part of the borrower's name. See the Help for AFO 431 for all options to identify a borrower.

Next a sub menu is displayed:

These options are described in the next sections.

Also consult the general help on this subject for background information.

View/modify deposit(+): This option is used to increase the amount of the deposit. You can only add money to deposits whose usage restrictions contain the current institution/location within their scope. For example, a borrower at PNB/BD can add money to his deposit that has usage restriction of PNB/* but cannot add money to his deposit that has usage restriction of TST/BR1. The borrower would have to physically go to TST/BR1 to add money to the second deposit.

Fields on the screen

Deposit code, Description and Current amount on deposit are protected fields.

Amount to add: The amount to add field must be greater than the amount defined as the minimum amount of positive deposit change and must be greater than the minimum total amount of deposit (these amounts are defined in AFO 481 – Deposit codes).

Borrower who pays deposit: This field may be protected, may be limited to a list of related borrowers (with the specific relation type(s) defined in the deposit code record) or the borrower may be displayed along with a search button.

Payment code: Choose a payment code from the dropdown list. These codes are defined in AFO 481 – Deposits – Valid payment types.

417.6.2 Refund deposit

The ability to refund cash from deposit accounts is a restricted function. In AFO611 – Passwords – Login restrictions – Borrowers and Loans (continued), there is an option, Refund deposits, that restricts users from using the Refund option on the Modify deposits screen. If you attempt to refund and you are a restricted user, a warning message is shown.

If you are allowed to refund and the deposit is still valid for your borrower category and if, within the usage restriction scope of the deposit, there is at least one institution/location set-up for your borrower category that is in-use and the usage restrictions contain the current institution/location, a form displays containing the following fields:

The screenshot shows a window titled "V-smart [1.0.01]" with a "Refund deposit" form. The form has a light yellow background and a blue title bar. It contains five text input fields with the following values: "Deposit code" (Fines), "Description" (Fines), "Current amount on deposit" (10.00), "Administrative costs" (0.25), and "Amount to refund" (9.75). Below the fields is a "Save settings" checkbox. On the right side, there is a button panel with "OK", "Cancel", and "Help" buttons.

Fields on the screen

Deposit code, Description and Current amount on deposit are protected fields.

Administrative costs: protected. Defaults to the amount defined in the Deposit code record. It is never more than "Current amount on deposit".

Amount to refund: free text. Automatically defaults to the (current amount – administrative charge). This is the maximum amount that the borrower can get back. If the Allow partial refunds flag is not set in the Deposit code, this is the only acceptable amount for the borrower to get back.

Note

If the deposit is no longer defined or is not in-use for the borrower category, all of the money is refunded back to the borrower. The deposit is removed from the borrower's list of deposits.

Note

You are only able to refund money from deposits whose usage restrictions contain the current institution/location within their scope. For example, a borrower at PNB/BD can get money refunded from his deposit that has usage restriction of PNB/* but cannot refund money from his deposit that has usage restriction of TST/BR1. The borrower has to physically go to TST/BR1 to refund money out of the second deposit.
